HUGE PEMBINA FIELD BRINGS $2,277,435. INTO GOVERNMENT TREASURY.

When projected against a map of other Canadian oil fields the Pembina field still looms up as a mighty big Mr. Big among oilfields. This was borne out by the very excellent price which was obtained by the provincial government on the sale of oil-drilling leases in the Pembina field at the recent land sale. While the largest per-acre price was paid for land in the Swan Hills district, yet, considering the state of the present oil market situation, and the fact that the Pembina field is now five years old, oil-wise, the price paid for the leases in this field were remarkably high.

Following is a listing of the Pembina sales: W 10-49-9W5, N 24-38-2, 24-42-7W5, 800 acres, Murphy Canadian Oil Co. $116,000.00, an average of $145.00 per acre.

DRAYTON VALLEY CURLING RINK HAS SEMI-OFFICIAL OPENING.

What might be termed as a semi-official opening of Drayton Valley's fine curling rink was held on Sunday, January 25, when rinks from Edmonton and other places came to play against local rinks.

In the 1:30 draw Stansburg played against the Ward Rink, Tomahawk played the Carter Rink, Stony Plain played Davis Rink, Busk Creek played against Stevenson Rink and an Edmonton rink, Vic Sopack, played against Reglin.

In the 4:00 o'clock draw Myler, of the Thistle Curling Club in Edmonton played against the Sawatsky Rink, Al Shaver, of CPEN, Edmonton, curled against the Casey Rink, Bud Olson, of Edmonton, for Canadian Ice Machine Co. who installed the equipment for the artificial ice in the curling rink against McMahon, Ed. List, of Edmonton against the Rose Rink and Ed. Fender, of Edmonton, against the Bullen Rink.

Following the Benson's buffet supper was served by the Ladies Curling Club in the banquet room of the rink. M.C. for the occasion was "Spike" Brown, who did a first-class job in that position. He introduced Deputy Mayor Fleckup who spoke in behalf of the town of Drayton Valley to welcome the visitors and to commend the Curling Club on their fine achievement. He likened the Drayton Valley Curling Association to a link in a giant chain of fellowship binding communities together. First President, Billy Rose was introduced and spoke briefly followed Ed. Fender, speaking for the Alberta Curling Association. Hal Fawson, Sports Editor for the Edmonton Journal was introduced and spoke briefly, followed by Bud Olson, of Canadian Ice Machines. Al Shaver, of CPEN, in his inimitable fashion, spoke for a few moments. Al Casav, present President of the local Curling Club was introduced.

KEN MASON'S COLUMN:

Look for an upswing in Alberta's economy during the coming year. That's the advice of the Alberta bureau of statistics, which has issued its annual review of business conditions. It is based on a study of conditions in 1958, coupled with probable developments during the coming 12 months.

According to the bureau, business activity in Alberta was well past the low point in the recession by the end of 1958, and since midsummer the economic recovery has been gaining momentum.

Some sectors of the economy were remarkably buoyant in the year which has gone into the record books as a recession year. For example, construction activity reached an all-time high. Building permits issued by the 10 cities in Alberta were worth almost $2000,000,000. Permits issued by other municipalities totalled more than $60,000,000.

Oil production continued to be a dark spot in the otherwise bright economic picture. Crude oil output dropped to 112,300,000 barrels in 1958 from 137,492,316 in 1957, mostly due to a decline in shipments to the U.S.

But the bureau noted that 1958 oil well drilling activity had increased over 1957 and crude oil production at the end of the year appeared to be increasing substantially once again.

Production of all other minerals was up for the year, and natural gas output increased to 245 trillion cubic feet from 183 trillion a year earlier.

"Particularly significant is the underlying stability evidenced in all industries in a so-called recession year," says the bureau.

Farm cash income was about $44,000,000 ahead of last year. Although grain earnings were way down -- indicating farmers who rely wholly or mostly on grain were feeling the pinch -- the drop was more than offset by increases in livestock income.

Gross value of manufacturing during the year was estimated at $808,000,000 -- and increase of $45,000,000 over 1957. Increases were due both to greater production by established firms and new firms starting production.

Total retail for the year was estimated at $1,245,000,000, a three-per cent increase over the previous year. Percentage increases were higher during the last months of the year, indicating an increasing consumer optimism.

The bureau listed these reasons for predicting a bright economic picture in 1959.

"The provincial government has announced a major program of institutional building; a substantial volume of industrial building has already been announced; there will be considerable pipeline building to link gas fields, and the federal government is expected to make further sums of mortgage money available in order to continue the residential building program."

WE'VE SPENT the past couple of weeks sitting in on hearings to decide whether Northwestern Utilities Ltd. should be permitted to increase natural gas rates.

Northwestern, which serves Edmonton and 59 other Alberta towns and cities, wants its gross revenue increased by 29 per cent. A similar inquiry is under way in Calgary, where Canadian Western Utilities has applied for an increase.

The only thing certain at this point is that the provincial board of public utility commissioners faces a tough job in reaching a decision. The evidence presented has been so technical and involved some of the economists even have trouble understanding it.

And how do you explain the mystery of two groups of economists studying the same data and coming up with two entirely different answers -- one in favor of increased gas rates, the other opposed.

YOUR HOME AND SCHOOL.

BY: Lois C. Lockwood, Secretary, D.V. Home and School.

The January meeting of the Drayton Valley District Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium, on Monday, January 26. This meeting is held the 4th Monday of each month.

The present executive are finding it impossible to carry on unless more co-operation is shown. With this announcement a discussion followed on whether or not Home and School should disband. A 'buzz session' followed and it was agreed that at least one more meeting will be held, this will be well advertised -- YOU, as a parent, are requested to attend.

Due to the efforts of Home and School, the school has a fencing program underway. It is felt a patrol cannot be set up until this is completed.

A committee was set up to go before the Town Council asking for a sidewalk west from the school corner to the main highway. A motion was made: "There should be a fire drill carried out in the school" leaving it up to the teachers as to the regularity.

Money raising projects were discussed and will be considered if Home and School continues.

Mrs. MacLure gave an interesting summary of Mr. Jacob's address, which he gave at the District Home and School Conference at Evansburg.

Meeting adjourned and coffee served. SEE YOU next month!!

ARE FIRE DRILLS A FARCE IN YOUR SCHOOLS?

School authorities too often feel that because they've never had a fire, they are never going to have one. This cruel fallacy is a menace to the lives of school children, for actually there are five school fires a day in this country. We cannot, unfortunately, eliminate all of them. But we can, by efficient fire drills, get our children out of burning buildings safely.

Have you ever given serious thought to the kind of fire drill held in the school your children attend?

Even a well-constructed school can become a pyre if pupils are not methodically instructed.

The ideal beginning is for a committee from your Home and School Association to discuss the topic with the fire chief, and help in formulating a real program. A decent fire drill twice a month costs nothing and is the best device yet invented for getting children out of a "quick burner" in time.

You have been lucky if your school has never had a fire. But don't stretch your luck too far. We have seen it change too often, when children, undrilled, and paralyzed with fear, have burned to death. Such tragedies rend a community with wild and useless remorse. The wise course is to resolve that the school children in your community be prepared to meet the fire emergency that sooner or later comes to every school.

The first essential in the event of a fire in any school is to have the children leave the building in an orderly manner and to reach a point of safety without injury.

Fire safety for school children must provide a definite program by which the location of all available exits will be known to all the children. To accomplish this it is necessary to have frequent drills, well planned, properly supervised, and intelligently co-ordinated. When an actual fire occurs, the selection of the proper exit should be made without any hesitation.

Frequency of drills is more important in the primary and grammar grades than in the high school grades. By the time pupils have reached high school, the panicky feeling of a drill no longer exists.

Fire drills might be divided as follows: Plan, Purpose and Procedure.

PLAN: The plan will depend upon the type, kind, design and location of the school buildings, the number of teachers, age of the children, the possible use of monitors and the general character and physical condition of the children. Special provisions must be made for the removal of those who are crippled, or otherwise have to be helped. A standardized drill and fire alarm signal is an essential in every community.

PURPOSE: The purpose of any drill is to perfect the operation of a sufficient number of times so that it is possible in an emergency to carry it out in a natural, unhurried manner. The first drill should be a slow-motion affair so that all the details can be explained and a full understanding obtained. Numerous other drills should be held, until the evacuation of the building becomes so well established that the influx of a few new pupils would not make it necessary to hold the drills so frequently in severe winter weather.

Drills are to accustom people to the action which should be taken during a fire. Fires may occur at any minute, therefore no fixed time should be set for any drill, no notification should be sent to any teacher, and only those notified should be those whose duty it is normally to transmit an alarm to the fire department. To completely evacuate the building is the main consideration and must always be borne in mind. Other work or duties should never be assigned which would interfere with the exit of the pupils.

PROCEDURE: In executing fire drills, consideration should be given to the health of the children, but except at such times when there are epidemics of colds, the short time the children

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

BY: Danita Belong.

Ose Whis! So that I can come out of hiding and let my face get back to its normal color, will you all run and get last week's paper and to that Angel Cake Delight recipe, add one pint of whipped cream to the chocolate mixture before pouring it over the cake pieces? I would like to blame the Editor for the error, but it is entirely my fault. He can only print the recipes the way I give them to him and I "plumb forgot" to add that pint of nice rich whipped cream! I only hope that none of you have tried it yet but if you have, then I sincerely apologize for my blunder and I hope you'll try it again with the cream, it will taste much better, I promise!

"Old Winter has a keen delight which summer never imparts", and it seems to me as if Old Winter's keen delight this year has been to really kick up her heels. I rather like Winter and I think she has her own special type of beauty, especially in this part of Canada where she wears "all white" for several months, but I still find my thoughts wandering to the word "Spring" and to all the brilliance of the new life that will appear almost overnight.

Sorry, I didn't mean to get so poetic about the seasons but weather plays such an important part in our lives, here in this area, that it is usually the first subject of any conversation. The next most important item of conversation this week, at least among the ladies, has been the wonderful sales that our Drayton Valley stores have been having. If you missed them, then it shows you have neglected reading the ads in this paper because "first grade" merchandise has been priced so low you simply could not afford to let it go by. But I have a complaint! Why do all the good sales show up just when I have a handful of Christmas bills to pay and when that thing called "money" is noticeable by its absence. Now might be a good time to apply for a cash loan at the Royal Bank of Canada, Drayton Valley Branch, as I hear that the manager is in a very fine mood, has stars in his eyes and a "bride to be" on his arm!

Here is the germ of a great idea! Why don't we ladies exchange recipes? I'm not asking for your very secret prize winning one, but you must have some old reliable favorites that you use often for your regular family meals, the quick meal recipes which you use when you want to fool your husband into believing you have been home all day slaving over a hot stove. When that happens to me I start with a package of link sausages and fry them until they are brown and the fat cooked out, then I pop them into a casserole and cover them with a can of cream of mushroom soup that has been thinned with the same amount of water. I bake them at a bubbly simmer for about an hour. It is a good main dish that fills the need for both meat and gravy. So send me your recipes, Box 507, and include your name and I will be glad to share your culinary tricks with the ladies of Drayton Valley and the surrounding area. I will promise not to make a continued story out of it like I did for that poor Angel Cake recipe. O.K.?

My humble thought for today:

HERE AND THERE.

Yesterday a man (a mere man) came into the PMA office asking for the recent paper as he wanted the recipe from it. We cried..."No, No, No! You must wait for this week's paper, also, for the complete recipe". But then we found out that he wanted the first one that had the recipe for the sauce.

Incurably nosy, we, asked him what he intended to do with it. "Well, it will be very handy to make up ahead of time when we go camping". How is that for a recipe with universal appeal! Eunice D. Worth (formerly Eunice Allen) and her husband Dave and little girl Arla were recent visitors in Violet Grove from Dawson Creek, B.C.

work has gone into all preparations for the Ice Carnival which is expected to draw hundreds of spectators.

A cast of twenty-seven amateur performers from Edmonton will be on hand, along with two professionals, Miss Hanna Fuchs and Mr. Jordan Linney, both of Edmonton. Among the amateurs will be little Brenda McQuig who performed so capably last year.

Reports indicate that ticket sales, each of which represents a vote toward the Queen, are going well. Anyone looking for entertainment for the next two or three days should be able to find it, and first-class entertainment, at that.

LOCAL MEN BUY FORMER DRUMSTICK RESTAURANT BUILDING.

A building changed hands in Drayton Valley recently when Len Barnard, of Drayton Valley Dry-Cleaners and John Ewanic, of Devon Jewelry, purchased the building which had formerly belonged to Ted and Jeanne Reid; the building was the former Drumstick Cafe.

Extensive alterations and remodeling are underway, under the direction of Harry Mastre, to make the building one of the most modern and attractive buildings in the block. The present front will be set back about three feet, and
